

1. What?

PSD covers Personal, Social, Health, Emotional, Citizenship, Sex and Relationships Education and includes everything we do at Marlborough School to promote good relationships and respect, good health and well-being, confidence and personal responsibility and to help children to make the most of their abilities for themselves and for them to play an active role as citizens.

2. Why?

We teach PSHE to support children in their role at school because:

- it can improve the effectiveness of children's learning
- it supports the development of positive self esteem
- it underpins children's personal development
- it helps children understand their and other people's worth
- it develop an understanding of the consequences of personal behaviour

We teach PSHE to prepare children for their role in society at large because:

- it can create an individual who is able to contribute successfully and positively to the society/situation in which they live
- it supports children in becoming fully rounded people who can empathise with others
- it underpins children's sense of respect and responsibility
- it helps children take responsibility for themselves and their environment
- it develops children's understanding of how they can act upon their respect for their family and community

3. How?

PSHE at Marlborough is taught through:

- daily routines
- planned teaching
- providing role models (as teachers and through older children as mentors)
- in response to specific incidents
- using external agencies to ensure relevance, appropriate expertise and establish real-life links
- involve children in the review and development of PSHE learning activities

4. What If?

Through PSHE at Marlborough children will be:

Respectful	tolerant and empathetic, diplomatic and empathetic
Ready	open-minded and independent, willing to take risks
Resourceful	practical, confident and adaptable
Resilient	well-rounded and healthy
Remembering	understanding of the consequences of behaviour
Reflective	self evaluative and expressive of emotions
Responsible	safe and positive